FOOT TROUBLES RELIEVED.

A MAN WHOSE EVERTY STEE brings a twinge of pain is a crippia Rheumatism and gout, wrongly, receive most of the blame for this pain in the feet. Rheumatism is still.
In the feet. Rheumatism is still, in the feet is commonly located in the medical profession. Rhoumatism of the feet is commonly located in the ankle joint. But the cause of distross is, in 50 per cent, of cases, flat foot. The trouble begins with a stinging pain in the arch of the foot; then it is felt in the heel, 'Policeman's heel,' and also at the hall of the foot. The short ligaments, connecting the heel-bone with the bones at the ball of the foot, becoice unduly streened, rrom various causes. The short bones in the arch are pushed downward, inward and out of place by the weight of the body, and the pain becomes intense.
The only permanent relief that can be obtained is by the use of an instep supporter. This holds up the arch of the instep, restores the natural position of the bones in the arch, and relieves the painful strain upon the numerous ligaments and membranes that hold them together.
